

AMERICA'S YOUTH IN CONCERT 1972

---

America's Youth in Concert™

---

Much is being said today about delinquency and rebellion in American youth. Unfortunately, the noble and good often go unnoticed. The programme "America's Youth in Concert" was conceived to dramatize to the world the fine quality and high standard of character of American youth, motivate music students and reward them for effort in achieving excellence, and provide an outstanding educational experience for participating students. This is achieved through a rigorous selection procedure which has assembled over 900 of the finest young musicians selected from every state in the Nation. The programme is organized into two Bands, a concert symphony Orchestra and two Choirs and provides the students with the opportunity to perform under the baton of outstanding conductors in an atmosphere of some of the most historic concert halls and shrines of the United States and Europe.

This programme is arranged especially for students of outstanding character who have demonstrated exceptional music ability. The programme "America's Youth in Concert" sponsored by the Universal Academy For Music, Princeton, New Jersey, is designed to enrich and expand the musical and cultural experience of the students selected for the programme. It is also designed to further develop already recognized talents and provide the students with an opportunity to dramatize to the world the fine quality and high character of American youth.

Following their concert at CARNEGIE HALL this company of outstanding American students of music will perform at John F. Kennedy Center, Washington, D. C., prior to their scheduled concerts in London, Brussels, Paris, Salzburg, Venice, Florence and will conclude with their final concert at the BALSILICA of MASSENZIO at the Roman Forum, Rome, Italy.

Second European Concert Tour

July 6, 1972 - August 2, 1972

New Jersey -- New York -- Washington D.C. -- England --

France -- Belgium -- West Germany

Austria -- Italy

Nine hundred American youth accepted as a challenge the purpose and objectives of America's Youth in Concert; to dramatize to the world the fine quality and high character of American youth. In this they succeeded. They carried their musical talents along the eastern seaboard and across five European nations thrilling their audiences, numbering in the tens of thousands, with their musical finesse, their freshness and their enthusiasm for life.

In Italy — the Leaning Tower of Pisa

In London — the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace

In Belgium — Symbol of the atomic age, the Atomium in Brussels

The Dream

America's Youth in Concert -- The Realization of a Dream

On June 28, 1971, 500 young men and women from all over America came together for the first time. Their gathering was the beginning of the fulfillment of a dream. The dream, conceived in the mind of Lynn Stewart Geddes, president of the Universal Academy for Music, was that a group of young Americans might be brought together to dramatize to the world the fine quality and high standards of the character of American youth, to motivate and reward dedicated performance by youthful music students, and to provide the participating students an outstanding educational experience. America's Youth in Concert assembled to fulfill that high purposed dream.

On July 6, 1972, 900 more young people answered the call to achieve, to succeed, to dramatize, and to fulfill. When they first came together they were a gathering of individuals, strangers to one another. But they had the common bond of music — the common interest, the common goal, the common dedication to music as an art and a universal language, and to the performance of music as the highest form of human cooperation.

That bond welded them into a unit. Under the direction of some of America's outstanding music educators, Dr. Max F. Dalby, Dr. William Ramsey, Professors James Jorgenson, Vilom Sokol, and Theron Kirk, this rich raw material was molded into a finished form, a musical expression consisting of two concert bands, a symphony orchestra, and two choirs totaling nearly 500 voices. They performed in America and in Europe and achieved the desired result — they proved that American youth justify the high hopes for America and the world that motivated the dreams of Lynn Stewart Geddes, Founder and President of Universal Academy for Music.

From mass chaos . . .
to ordered confusion

through an intensive rehearsal schedule, to the successful completion and enthusiastic acceptance of the first concert, recorded live, at Carnegie Hall.

During the few short weeks of their adventure, America's Youth in Concert saw and experienced many things. Tour buses took them through the grandeur of the Alps. They visited the antiquities of Rome.

They went to their nation's capital and saw the beauties of that great city. There they grew in appreciation for the American ideal they had espoused . . .

They wandered through the beautiful, luxurious gardens at Versailles . . . and longed for the beauties of America.

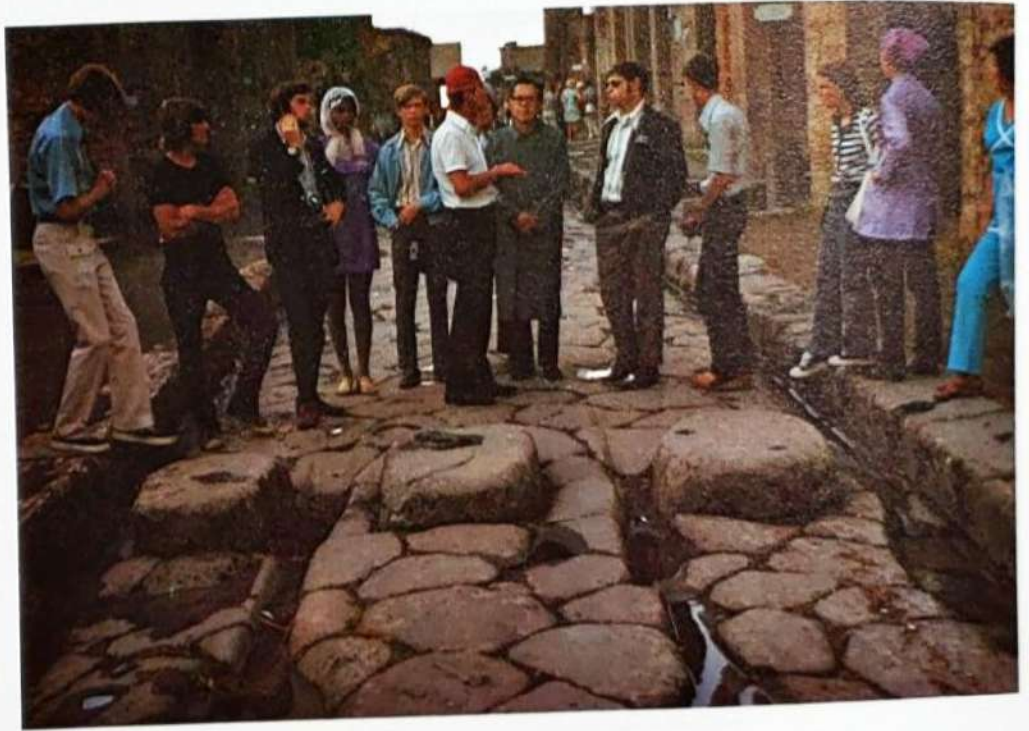

In Paris, the Eiffel Tower dominates and towers over the city's skyline . . .

The beautiful Arc de Triomphe stands as a symbol of courage and freedom to Parisians and Americans alike.

In the Mozart Platz in Salzburg, Austria, the statue of Wolfgang Mozart stands as a beacon to music lovers all over the world.

In the ancient Roman city of Pompeii, students examine ruts in the stone streets made by the passing of thousands of chariots.

The beautiful Villa Manin, home of the famous Manin family and the sight of a Venetian concert. The villa's beautiful paintings provided a glimpse into the grandeur of the past.

The famous Grand Platz of Brussels, Belgium intrigued many with its magnificent architecture.

At the ancient Roman Colosseum one could almost hear the roar of cheering Roman citizens from a bygone day in yesteryear.

England saw the final European experiences for many; for others it was Italy . . . an evening concert outdoors at Villa Manin, the beautiful Doges Palace in Venice, San Marco Square.

The Staff

The Staff

These were the men and women who provided the direction, musical and administrative, and looked after the health and welfare of the students during the month abroad and the many months previously spent in planning.

Lynn Stewart Geddes — founder and president of Universal Academy for Music, conceived the idea of taking young Americans to Europe as ambassadors of music and good will. With his lovely wife — Carolyn — constantly at his side, he struggled through the many problems and frustrations of seeing the idea brought into reality. The Geddes' were the originating force behind America's Youth in Concert and continue to provide the motivating force behind it.

The President of Universal Academy for Music

Dr. Max F. Dalby, General Concert Director and Conductor of Concert Band, Unit B. Mrs. Betty Dalby.

Dr. William Ramsey, Associate Concert Director and Choir Conductor, Unit B. Mrs. Phyllis Ramsey.

Musical Directors

The task of forming 900 musically talented young people into cohesive, balanced performing groups fell to five men. They brought to the Academy national reputations as music educators, plus their great personal musical talent and conducting skill. Their wives added an immeasurable dimension, aiding their husbands in every way and helping with the students as well.

(Top) Theron Kirk, Conductor, Unit A Choir and Mrs. June Kirk. (Middle) Professor James Jorgenson, Conductor, Unit A Concert Band and Mrs. Lorraine Jorgenson. (Bottom) Professor Vilem Sokol, Conductor, Unit A Symphony Orchestra and Mrs. Agatha Sokol.

These five music directors represent some of the outstanding colleges and universities in the nation. Dr. Dalby is head of the Department of Music, Utah State University, Logan, Utah. Dr. Ramsey is Professor of Music and Director of Choral Activities, Utah State University, Logan, Utah. Professor Kirk is Professor of Music and Director of Choral Activities, San Antonio College, San Antonio, Texas. Professor Jorgenson is Professor of Music and Director of Bands at the University of Redlands, Redlands, California. Professor Sokol is Professor of Music at the University of Washington, Seattle, Washington.

Frank Wirig, Vice President of UAM, had responsibility for the myriad administrative and business details. Mrs. Bessie Wirig was his steady helper.

Academy Staff

Members of the staff at Universal Academy for Music provided the necessary talents needed to make the program successful and the tour worthwhile. Each contributed in his own special way.

Wayne P. Shumway, Director of Admissions, UAM, was responsible for all admissions and had direct communication with each student during the long weeks and months prior to the tour. His countless hours of work and many thousands of letters helped to insure a successful tour. Mrs. Donna Shumway added her support.

Allan D. Howard, Administrative Assistant, UAM, had many and varied responsibilities. His diligence in administrative, musical and logistical details helped to tie many of the loose ends that contributed greatly to the success of the combined units during the American portion of the tour.

Secretarial Staff

Countless thousands of hours of work by unseen hands best describes UAM's secretarial staff. They became acquainted with each student intimately and provided the backbone for the accomplishment of the administrative detail.

Unit A Tour Directors

Frank Turner, Tour Director —
Problems to solve, questions to answer, fears to calm . . .
Before many days into the tour, the tour director became one of the most sought after faces.

Lonnie Cunningham, Assistant Tour Director — The assistant tour director could better be labeled the "legman" of the tour. Countless details, unseen by most, must be handled quickly and efficiently.

Unit B Tour Directors

Wayne P. Shumway, Tour Director — His task of moving 500 people across Europe with as little difficulty as possible was not an easy one. The tour's success was purchased with long, almost unending days and many sleepless nights.

Allan D. Howard, Assistant Tour Director — To correlate administrative details between the Academy and the chaperones required much of Mr. Howard's time. He was also responsible for the instrument truck and other logistical details.

Unit A

Dr. Verl Fry, M.D.

Medical Staff

The medical well-being of both students and staff was entrusted into the hands of capable medical professionals.

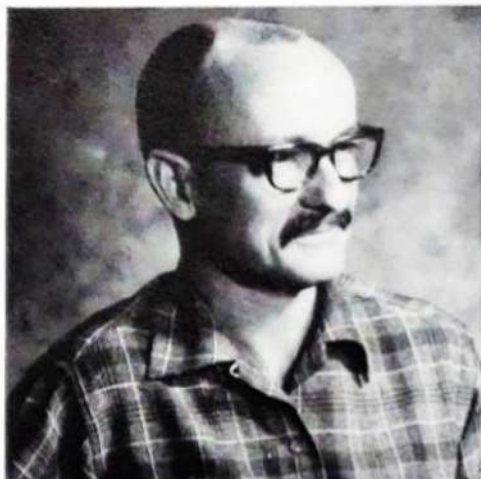

Mrs. Fry spent as many sleepless nights as her husband.

Miss Linda Hamill, R.N.

Unit B

Dr. John Carlyle, M.D.

500 colds and sore throats at once, not to mention other miscellaneous maladies, kept the medical personnel busy through the days . . . and the nights!

Mrs. Carlyle served as a willing assistant to her husband by handing out countless throat lozenges and aspirins.

Mrs. Carol Buckley, R.N.

Unit A Chaperones

For four weeks, these were the men and women who served as chaperones for the 450 members of Unit A. However, their duties did not end here. They also served as substitute parents to their homesick charges, emergency instrument repairmen, first aid assistants and a hundred other assorted occupations. The general well-being and care of the students was entrusted to the watchful eye of these outstanding individuals.

Unit B Chaperones

For most parents, four or five students can keep things pretty hectic. Imagine the scenes with 45! UAM's chaperones filled a void in many young lives and became parents away from home. The students grew to love their adopted parents and experienced their love returned. Many friendships were begun that will no doubt last through the years.

The Tour

They came from all over America to make music, to entertain, and to learn! Home was an apartment in Manhattan, a small town in the Midwest, a ranch in Wyoming, a farm in Arizona, or a shoreside home in California. They left behind home, family and friends and went forth to meet new faces, new knowledge, and new experiences; the like of which they had never yet dreamed!

First stop was Rider College, New Jersey. It was a hectic home for several days.

"Registration, orientation, housing, roommates, chaperones . . . and already this suitcase is too heavy. I didn't think 44 pounds could weigh so much."

"Your baggage is ten pounds overweight. I'm sorry, some of it will have to be sent home."

"But I need it all!"

The days at Rider could best be described as confusion at the new order of things . . .

and rehearsals and rehearsals and rehearsals and more rehearsals!

"Say, are they really serious about this curfew and bedcheck stuff?"

New York City

Skyscrapers, traffic, ferries,
traffic, Lincoln Center,
Central Park, more skyscrapers and more traffic. And then there was Carnegie Hall . . .

America's Youth in Concert is a national organization dedicated to the music-making and performance training of young Americans of all ages.

Admission: $10.00
Reservations: 212-477-1234

to purchase tickets, contact the Dept. of Carnegie Hall,
100 West 42nd Street,
New York, NY 10018

100 400 600 200

Most of the day was spent in dress rehearsals . . . walking on and off stage at least a "hundred times."

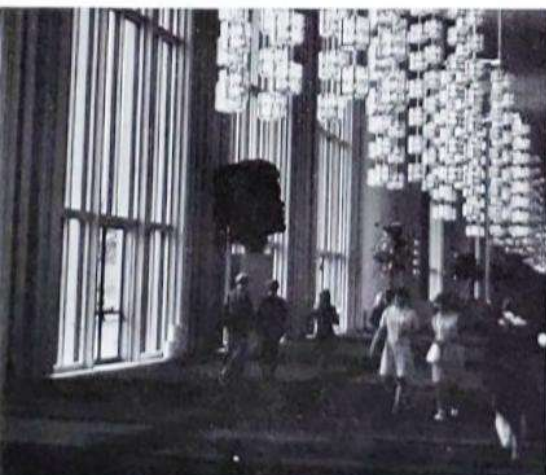

. . . And 900 musicians really can perform on and around one stage at the same time!

Washington, D.C.

After a successful concert at Carnegie Hall and a few short hours of sleep at Rider, it was time to load up luggage and load up busses and head south to the nation's capital. Soon Rider was far behind and the tour finally seemed to be underway.

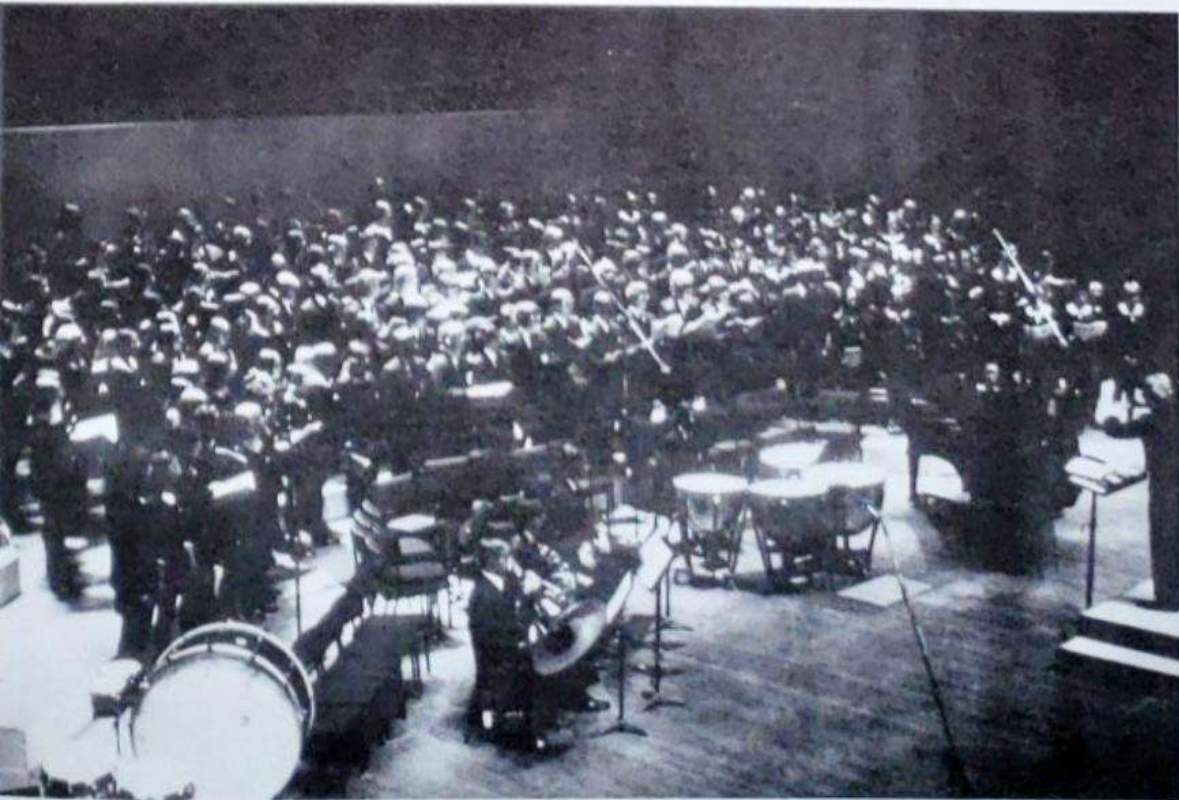

Then a hurried check-in at the hotel, a quick change into uniform, and the first glimpse of the beautiful John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts followed by . . . you guessed it, "more rehearsals"!

Rehearsals, a last minute glance at the music, then the concert. Members of the White House staff attended.

Europe

To attempt to move one thousand people in one group at the same time is at best almost impossible. After the concert in Washington, Units A and B divided and went their separate ways. Unit A to London, and Unit B to Rome. They would not meet again until both arrived in Salzburg, Austria.

America's Youth
in Concert<sup>T.M.</sup>
1972

England

Bobbies with funny hats, Big Ben, Parliament, the Tower of London, the River Thames and the ancestral home for many. "And look! They're all driving on the wrong side of the street. Oh! Look at that castle! How would you like to live in that!"

The English home for many was Royal Holloway College, a branch of the University of London. For others, it was Garnet College.

And what's England without the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace! A quick film change and "Here they come!"

England's Past

This island kingdom stands as an eternal monument to the countless millions of stubborn Britishers who have loved and defended her through the centuries.

Throughout her history, England has seen such colorful people as Henry VIII, with his six wives, Queen Elizabeth I and her glorious reign, William Shakespeare, the tragic figure of Charles I on the executioner's block and Oliver Cromwell. All Americans are familiar with George III and his role in the American Revolution. Even today we witness the beauty and grandeur of the English Court in the person of Queen Elizabeth II.

Londoners during the centuries have listened to the finest musicians in the world. England can boast of such musical personalities as Purcell, Weber, Bull, and Ralph Vaughn-Williams. Mozart performed here when he was only eight years old. G.F. Handel came to England in 1710 and for the next fifty years London listened to his music. The "Messiah" was first performed in London in 1743 and Handel last directed it in 1759, a few days prior to his death.

England has so much to offer her foreign visitors and has given so much to the world through the centuries that it isn't difficult to understand why England has so much to boast about and why her greatness still stands undimmed.

The English Channel

Who could forget the crossing of the channel. Seagulls riding the wind, rocking boat decks, turning stomachs, and the first glimpse of the fabled white cliffs of Dover. Anybody remember those delicious box lunches?

Belgium

Brussels gave us the beautiful Grand Platz. Here the students performed before thousands of Belgium people packed into the Square. Everyone in Unit B remembers the key to the hotel safe, don't they?

Belgium's Past

Sightseeing in Brussels and Ghent saw many of the wonders of the medieval world. St. Bravo's Cathedral, old castles, city walls, etc. The Atomium, Symbol of the Atomic Age, provided a striking contrast.

This small country, not much larger than the state of Maryland, is one of the most densely populated areas of Europe. Because of her position in the Low Countries between France, Germany, Luxembourg, and Holland she has served as the doorway to Europe and, unfortunately, the battle ground of Europe. Some of the greatest military battles have been fought here. At Waterloo, Wellington defeated Napoleon. The last major German offensive action during World War II was crushed during the Battle of the Bulge.

Old Ghent, with her old castles and cathedrals, provides a vivid glance into the past. Here the Flemish masters lived, painted their masterpieces, and died. Hubert and Jan Van Eyck lead the list of Flemish painters and are said to be the inventors of oil painting. The "Adoration of the Mystic Lamb," their most famous painting, hangs in St. Bravo's Cathedral.

France

And then there was Paris . . .

A bus tour of the city by night,
the peaceful Seine, the Eiffel
Tower, Arc de Triomphe, the Louvre,
Napoleon's Palace, the busy Champs
Elysee, and on and on and on . . .

Whether an outdoor concert at Luxembourg Gardens or indoors in the beautiful "La Maditeine," the result was the same.
The Parisians loved the American musicians.

A guided tour of the exquisite palace at Versailles brought "oohs" and "ahs" from almost everybody. The exclamation "And they really lived here," was the most common of the day. The extensive, yet luxurious gardens at Versailles provided a peaceful interlude between hectic moments of buses, lines and waiting and waiting . . .

Jouy en Josas

And who can forget "home" at Jouy! The peaceful campus settled amid the towering trees provided a peaceful scene . . . and the food wasn't really all that bad!

"So everybody off the bus and stay off the road." At least you could stretch out a little and it was cooler!

France's Past

The mention of France brings to mind such notables of the past as Charlemagne, Joan of Arc, Louis XVI, Marie Antoinette, Napoleon and Charles de Gaulle.

Long held captive by the bonds of feudalism, France struggled for centuries to gain a national unity and identity. She has been a kingdom, an empire, a vassel state and a republic. The "Fifth Republic" and the current one, was established only fifteen years ago. With her unstable governments of the past, France has suffered much. She has fallen victim to the invading German armies three times within seventy years, yet, France still remains synonymous with anything romantic.

Paris is often called "the Capitol of France and the world." The peaceful Seine River and all the beauties of the city are beyond human expression. The Louvre, largest museum in the world, houses the greatest collection of priceless art in the world. Here is the home of Mona Lisa, the Venus de Milo, and many, many other famous pieces.

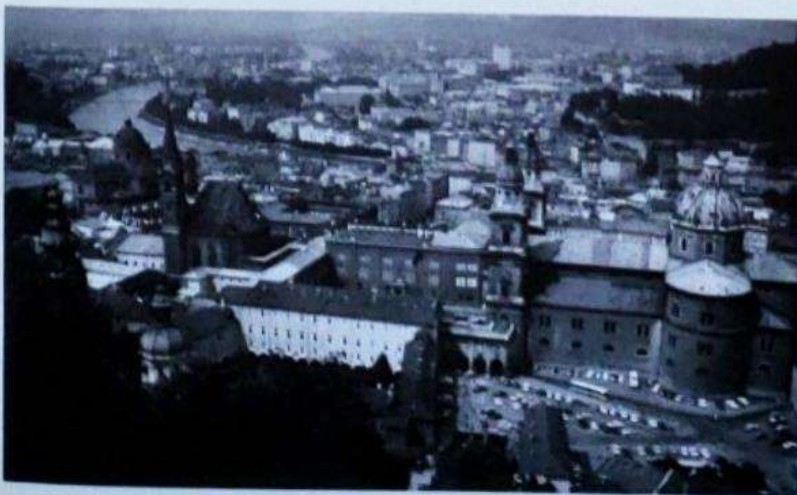

The French Court was a great patron of the arts. Mozart performed regularly for Marie Antoinette. Haydn was brought to Paris and there he wrote his Paris Symphonies. Rameau is considered one of the four most important composers of the Baroque period. Berlioz ranks with the greatest of all composers and Claude DeBussy was the foremost composer of the Impressionist Movement. Even today, the spirit that is France still breathes and invites the world to partake.

Salzburg, Austria

Where do you house 1000 members of America's Youth in Concert in the city of Salzburg? The answer is simple — you put them in 29 different hotels in and around the city.

Unit A and Unit B met and performed together for the last time in this quaint Austrian city where music is a byword, the key to the city and to the hearts of its people. Home of the famed Wolfgang Mozart and sight of the annual Mozart Festival, thousands of musicians from all over the world gather here yearly to participate.

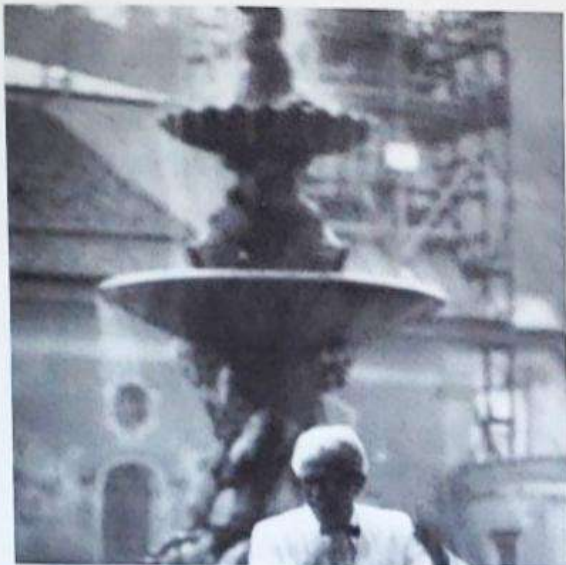

Narrow streets, quaint shops, warm, friendly people, and of course, the towering fortress, characterize this favorite city.

A tour of the sights from the "Sounds of Music," rehearsals at Kongress Haus, and a program featuring performing students and conductors. Even waiting for buses and instructions couldn't dampen the spirit of Salzburg.

An evening concert saw both units beside the giant fountain in the center of the old city where more than 5000 people heard the performance. Soon Salzburg was behind, but America's Youth in Concert had changed it a little bit, just by being there.

Crossing the Alps

The beautiful, snow covered Italian Alps captured the students, wildest imaginations. The narrow, winding roads reaching ever upward and ever downward, the multi-thousand foot drop offs, the craggy treeless peaks, and the greenest green in the world left vivid impressions not to be soon dimmed by the passing of time.

A tiny Italian village high in the Alps provided a quiet stopover for lunch. Buckets of spaghetti, barrels of sauce, and platters of veal . . .

Austria's Past

Austria is a new nation; she became a sovereign state in 1955. She is about the size of the state of Maine and is the remnant of an empire that once stretched from Naples to the North Sea, from Hungary to Portugal, and across the Atlantic to include the Spanish possessions in America. The Hapsburg family ruled this empire, named after them, from 1275 to 1918.

One cannot think of Austria without thinking of music. Many of the world's greatest composers were born here and Vienna was said to be the musical capital of the world. It was the home of Beethoven, Schubert, Brahms, Strauss and many others. From Salzburg came Michael Haydn and the Mozarts.

Austria gave us the waltz, the polka, and the "Sound of Music." The beautiful Austrian Alps, the quaint villages, friendly people and excellent food always provides a quiet stopover away from the large European metropolitan areas.

Italy

From Alpine villages to sun-bleached beaches, Italy beckons to all the world to come and experience that which was the best the western world had to offer. In many ways Italy still has the best the world offers.

Venice, The Canaled city

Gondas serenading lovers on lonely canals, the Bridge of Sighs, San Marco Square, the glass factories with their priceless Venetian glass and, of course, the pigeons, created memories for one and all.

Evening concerts at the Doges Palace and at the beautiful Villa Manin were not soon to be forgotten.

Florence

Home of some of the greatest treasures of art, Florence, with its many museums, churches, and villas, is a mecca for art lovers from all over the world.

Michaelangelo's David and many, many more of his works grace this lovely city.

An excursion to famous Tower of Pizza was a much longed for experience.

The greatness of Michaelangelo

Pompeii

Mount Vesuvius still looms ominously over the remains of the greatest of all Roman cities as if daring anyone to walk along those streets again. Pompeii was a Roman resort city that overlooked the blue Mediterranean. The cool sea breezes that once blew over the glory and grandeur of the city still blow peacefully, hinting at the beauty that once was Pompeii.

The ruined temples, the crumbling colosseum, the villas, public bath, and the skeletons all provide a bleak reminder of that ancient volcanic disaster.

The stone streets, rutted with the passing of thousands of chariots, still appear as they did after the last chariot raced through them 1900 years ago.

Rome

Rome, ancient home of the gods and city of emperors. Julius Caesar, Mark Anthony, Caesar
Agustus, and Cleopatra all walked along these ancient streets.

Who can grasp in words what Rome was? Or who can tell it all?
For she was the center of the civilized world and could boast the best and greatest of man's creative genius.

All roads led to Rome and ended here . . . the Roman Forum, the center of the center of the world.

A glance at the ruins of the massive colosseum hints at the greatness and majesty that was Rome. One Italian guide was heard to remark while pointing out the catacombs inside the Colosseum, "And this is the place they buried the Christians that were eaten alive by the Lions." Really now!

The Vatican City, Mecca for the world's 800 million Catholics.

Who can think of Rome or the Vatican and not think of Michaelangelo. One can still see where Michaelangelo hit his statue of Moses with his hammer and commanded him to speak. So lifelike was the figure.

The most famous of all Pietas, once damaged by a maniac claiming to be the Messiah, rests inside St. Peter's Cathedral.

Truly a city of fountains; Rome is graced by many beautiful ones.

(Left) Esedra Fountain
(Below Middle) Fountain of Bernini
(Bottom) Trevi Fountain

The simple, yet beautiful Domus Maria was the Roman home for most of the students. Its beautiful chapels, peaceful inner courts, comfortable rooms, and good food is still remembered.

Michaelangelo's "The Creation of Man" from the Sistine Chapel.

Italy's Past

The beginnings of western civilization began in this boot-shaped country of Southern Europe. There is so much in Italy that to describe it all would be impossible. From the beautiful Alps in the north to the beaches in the south, Italy is packed with the greatness of yesterday. Nowhere else can such a vision of the past be seen with such clarity.

The canals of Venice, home of Marco Polo, the wonders of Florence, Pompeii, Rome and on and on . . . the list is endless.

Italy could also be called the birthplace of Western music. For over a thousand years the Catholic Church was the most important influence in Western music and the Church was centered in Rome.

The first opera was written and performed in Italy in 1600 and today the most famous opera houses are in Italy. It is said that music truly has its home here but so do so many other things. Our language, our legal system, and on and on and on. It's another endless list.

And the end drew near . . .

Whether London or Rome, the final scenes were the same. Passports, luggage, tears, goodbye kisses, cheerful shouts, waving arms and more tears . . . Airports are sad and terrible places to say goodbye to close friends, knowing you may never see them again.

For others, the goodbyes were said in the states or in the air just before landing. One stewardess was heard to say, "these kids really do love each other, don't they!" as she witnessed the many tears that were shed.

The Star Spangled Banner, My Country 'Tis of Thee, and God Bless America were sung by the greatest group of kids in America and the singing was interrupted only by the mighty crescendo of cheers that erupted from tear-stained faces as the airplane wheels first touched American soil.

Other airports and more tears . . . A hug and Kiss goodbye for Mom and Dad Chaperone, a last goodbye and it was over . . . except for the memories . . .

These are some of the men you learned to know the best. You played their music and in so doing lived their greatest moments with them. You walked along some of the same streets, past some of the same houses, and had some of the same disappointments. As their lives were but struggles to succeed in what they loved, may you also struggle . . . and succeed.

A Tribute to America's Youth in Concert, 1972

Yes, you came! From all over America. And your talents, your smiles, your enthusiasm, and zest for life came with you. Yet more important than that, you brought yourselves and shared that with the world. That is the greatest talent! Sure, it wasn't always easy going. There were problems, tempers flared, and there were disappointments. But think back. What do you remember the most? The good times or the bad.

I wonder if each of you really realize just what you accomplished. Perhaps you may never know fully, but this much we know. You accepted a challenge, a difficult challenge -- to prove to the world the fine quality, outstanding character, and high ideals of American youth. May you never think that you failed to meet that great challenge. For you met it and you met it admirably and with honor to yourselves, your parents, and your country.

As the great American pioneers blazed new trails into the future, you too were pioneers, blazing new trails. You helped tremendously to make Universal Academy for Music's "America's Youth in Concert" a symbol of American strength and goodness to literally tens of thousands of European people. For that accomplishment you can take pride.

We were humbled and honored and we take pride that we were privileged to associate with you during the 1972 Concert Tour.

We salute you, America's Youth in Concert, as the greatest of America's youth and as the source of her strength for the future.
